

ELAPH APOLOGY

TO MR NADHMI AUCHI

On 2 September 2008, we published an article on our website which quoted an article previously published in a British newspaper which contained allegations that were false and defamatory of Mr Auchi. We understand that repeating these allegations caused Mr Auchi distress and embarrassment. We now accept that the allegations were untrue and should never have been published and we have undertaken not to republish them, or similar allegations, again. We have also agreed to pay Mr Auchi a sum in damages and his reasonable legal costs. With our sincerest apology to Mr Auchi for any distress caused.
